

NECKWEAR

Scarfs, Four-in-hands, Bows and Mufflers.

Mufflers in great variety—in Cashmere, Silk, Satin and Brocade. Ask to see the "Coaching Club."

It is worth your while to remember that we give an elegant Nickel-plated Safe, weighing 83 pounds, with each Suit or Overcoat sold at $15 or upwards. This safe has a Yale lock and four velvet-lined drawers. It makes a beautiful jewel casket or repository for valuables or keepsakes.

ORIGINAL EAGLE

5 and 7 West Washington St.

TRAVELERS' INDEX.
KANKAKEE LINE

(BIG FOUR RAIL-LINE)

NOW GO VISITING.

One of the holiday gifts that old and young rich and poor people of all conditions and persuasions should expect to find in the railroad during the holidays. In the railroad the people have a Santa Claus in the shape of a train. It is as if a Santa Claus had come to the people in the shape of a train. It is as if a Santa Claus had come to the people in the shape of a train. It is as if a Santa Claus had come to the people in the shape of a train.

CINCINNATI DIVISION.

Depart..... 5:55am 10:55am 5:55pm 8:25pm

Arrive..... 10:45am 11:45am 4:55pm 10:55pm

CHICAGO DIVISION.

Depart..... 5:55am 10:55am 5:55pm 8:25pm

Arrive..... 10:45am 11:45am 4:55pm 10:55pm

Fullman palace cars, elegant reclining-chair cars, and parlor cars between Indianapolis, Chicago and Cincinnati.

For tickets, sleeping-car accommodations and all information call at Union Depot or Ticket Office, corner Washington and Madison streets.

J. H. MAITIN, Dist. Pass. Agt.

"WHITE CAP" OPERATIONS.

The Self-Constituted Conservators of Morals in Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 13.—A dispatch from Toledo, O., says: Fresh outrages on the part of masked men in the vicinity of Toledo show that the "White Caps" are organized and working to a purpose. When the first reports were sent out little credence was placed in them, they being generally charged to the account of irresponsible reporters; but this opinion has been changed before the repeated raids of the Ohio White-cappers. The latest comes from Wood county. A man named Martin, living a few miles from Bowling Green, received notice early in the week that if he did not go to work and support his family he would meet punishment at the hands of "Wood County Vigilance." Martin paid no attention to the notice, and Tuesday evening, as he started for home in an automobile, he was seized by a band of masked men, taken into the woods. A rope was tied around his neck and one end thrown over a limb. He began to pray. Twice the men out to the prayer sheet by drawing their victim up until he dangled in the air. Then they stripped him, tied him to a tree, and applied beach switches until his back was a mass of bleeding flesh. His clothes were then ripped off, and he was taken home, where he now lies sick.

A few nights ago a man named Miller, living at Leipsic, received a notice similar to the one sent to Martin. He paid no attention to it, thinking it was a practical joke by some of his neighbors, but he started for home in an automobile. Tuesday night a band of men, mounted and equipped in White Cap outfits, dashed through the town. An attempt was made to follow them, but they scattered, and he was left alone. While there is no danger of the regulators doing any of their work within the city limits, they have already taken notice to farmers living in the adjacent towns.

Dellance, Napoleon, Perryburg and Maumee have each been visited, although no actual outrages were attended. The "White Caps" are now in the city, with the representation of a bowie knife beneath, is a favorite sign of the order in this vicinity. At Napoleon a notice bore the words: "God hates the person who is a coward." The White Caps are the Lord's chosen people to wreak out their vengeance on the wicked and unjust." The people are becoming much alarmed.

A Counselman Who Is Not Frightened.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 13.—Rev. Mead Holmes slept Tuesday night with a brace of revolvers under his pillow in anticipation of a promised visit from the "White Caps." He says that no threat will induce him to resign from the City Council, and that if anyone undertakes to attack him he would be ready to defend himself. He added that if the liquor men were planning any Haddock affair in Rockford he would undertake to say that he would prove no easy victim, and that any attempt of the kind would certainly result in the refusal of all liquor licenses in this place.

Attempt to Rob a Bank.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 13.—A bold attempt at bank robbery was made in this city this afternoon at the Peoples Savings Bank, while part of the force were absent at lunch. A stranger entered and engaged the cashier in conversation. His pal sneaked in the back door and entered the vault, but before he secured any money, Mr. Stannard, the bank teller, noticed him, and rushing to the vault covered the thief with a revolver, ordering him to hold up his hands. He did until the patrol arrived and took him to jail. In the excitement the first robber escaped. The one captured wore a pair of boots made of felt. He refused to give his name, but is supposed to be an Eastern crook. They were stopping at a leading hotel, and elegantly dressed.

Hayden Consul-General Removed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Hayden Consul-General Bassett was formally removed from office. The official papers of his discharge were handed yesterday by the steamer Clavier, from Kingston, and were served by Hayden Minister Preston.

Vice-consul Singleton was promoted to the vacancy. Mr. Preston said that Mr. Bassett was not removed for any mistake he had made, but simply because the new administration wanted a man in the position who was thoroughly in sympathy with its purposes. Mr. Bassett has been Hayden consul at New York for the past five years, and for the previous four years he was Hayden vice-consul. Before that he represented the United States at Hayti.

An Expressman Arrested for Robbery.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—A dispatch from Waco, Tex., says: E. F. Howe, an old expressman, was arrested at Waco yesterday for robbing the Pacific Express Company of $5,000 last September. This is the money that was alleged to belong to the national Republican committee and disappeared mysteriously at this point. When arrested Howe broke down and confessed to the crime. He has spent considerable money since the robbery. A list of expenditures given by him amounted to $2,600. The detective procured and have many of the original bills which he had passed at various places.

WHEN INDICATIONS.

FRIDAY—Fair weather; slightly warmer.

Down With the Surplus

Ninety-three million gallons is the surplus of whisky now on hand in this country. Down with the surplus, says a Kentucky newspaper.

We might say that we have a surplus in Overcoats. We are going to put it down. This makes

YOUR CHANCE.

You can't buy an Overcoat in this market to anything like the advantage that you can get it of us; and you never could get it of us to greater advantage than you can get it now.

We have Overcoats from $6 to $50, and in every style known to fashion.

In every fabric known to the trade.

GET ONE!

THE WHEN

CHRISTMAS SILK HATS,

Christmas Silk Umbrellas,

Christmas Seal Skin Gloves,

Christmas Fur Robes,

Christmas Furs of every description.

BAMBERGER

HATTER AND FURRIER,

16 East Washington Street.

A SENSATIONAL ARREST.

"Jimmy" Dickson's Partner in a Publishing Company Charged with Embezzlement.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Telegraph T. Timony, formerly professor of Greek at Harvard University, and author of "The Original Mr. Jacobs" and "The American Jew," two works which have attracted widespread attention on account of their unflinching denunciation of the Semite race, was arrested last night on a charge of having committed extensive embezzlement of money belonging to the Minerva Publishing Company, a concern of which he was the managing partner.

Timony, who is now in the Minerva Publishing Company, whose offices are at 10 West Twenty-third street, consist of T. T. Timony and J. Dickson, formerly of the theatrical firm of Brooks & Dickson. The house has been doing an extensive business, the sale of "The Original Mr. Jacobs" alone having, it is said, exceeded 150,000 copies. Timony, it appears, lived in fine style at Fordham, and is known to have spent large sums in day living about town, but nothing wrong was suspected until a short time ago, when the firm was most unexpectedly discovered to be unable to meet its obligations to the Rand Avery Company, the Boston Publishing House, who were the printers for the Minerva Publishing Company.

A few days later the Rand Avery Company made an assignment. As soon as these happenings reached the ears of Mr. Dickson, he at once fled to Philadelphia, managing the Broad-street Theater, of which he is lessee, he hastened to this city and began an examination of the books. His examination disclosed, it is alleged, extensive falsifications. There are probably few men better known about town than Timony. Of tall and commanding figure, with a swarthy complexion, black hair and beard, and mustache, and a pair of eyes that are known to be restless black eyes and a nose of oppressive curvature, he presented a striking appearance—an appearance decidedly typical of the race upon which he has levied such uncompromising warfare. His Hebrew appearance, in fact, subjected him to many jests. He came to this city some ten years ago, after teaching at a college at Holyoke, Mass., and at Harvard University, and attracted attention by writing "The History of Greece from the Times of Homer," which was published in the American edition by the Minerva Publishing Company. He was a member of the New York School of Languages, now known as the Dwight School of Languages, which was a very pretentious institution under the management of John McCullough, entitled, "The Wife of Mileus," which the latter was making extensive preparations to produce, when, as Timony said, he was taken into custody by his Semite leader, on the subject, and soon after he became connected with the Minerva Publishing Company.

The Original Mr. Jacobs' created a painful sensation, and although a lively boycott was instituted against the work in many quarters, it achieved an almost phenomenal circulation. Its very recklessness and vigor of abuse lent it a certain charm. A committee of prominent Hebrews waited upon President Jenkins, of the Elevated Railway News Company, and demanded that the objections work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work be removed from the stands. Timony's thereupon secured the names of the members of the committee and created quite a sensation by instituting proceedings against them for criminal conspiracy. The matter was only hushed up with considerable difficulty. After publishing "The American Jew," Timony was the recipient of many letters threatening his life, and it was upon two occasions severely assaulted.

I saw Mr. Dickson a couple of hours after the arrest, and he was hurrying away to catch the train for Philadelphia. He said that he feared Timony's shortage would be large; how large he refused to say. He declared, however, that the firm had a large backlog of work, and would be able to meet all its obligations. He said that the firm's obligations to the Rand Avery Company, of Boston, only amounted to a few thousand dollars, and that these obligations had nothing to do with the Rand Avery Company's recent failure. This failure, he asserted, was brought about by the latter company handling a gigantic business on installment basis, and that the obligations work